BISHOP BRYANT

AUTHOR OF UPSTREAM

INTERVIEW TOPICS

- Why it's never too late to pursue a creative calling.
- Writing your first novel at 75.
- How a childhood in Los Alamos shaped his understanding of good and evil.
- Growing up in the shadow of the atomic bomb.
- The meaning of åamodt and the coexistence of opposing forces.
- Finding purpose in unexpected chapters of life.
- What it means to go "upstream" in a world that encourages the easy route.
- How faith can serve as a compass through life's challenges.
- The role of guardian angels, humor, and divine intervention in everyday life.
- Starting over when the life you planned begins to unravel.
- The intersection of spirituality, nature, and personal transformation.
- Why protecting clean water is about more than environmental conservation.
- How fiction can bring attention to real-world environmental issues.
- The environmental history of Appalachia and its waterways.
- The impact of logging, pollution, and flooding on freshwater ecosystems.
- What speckled trout can teach us about resilience and survival.
- Using a $270 million mystery to explore environmental stewardship.
- The fascinating connection between a 150-year-old mystery and the future of clean water.

AS FEATURED IN

iHeart Radio

The Washington Post

SN StarNews ONLINE

For all publicity inqueries please contact Spellbound PR:

Hannah Larrew
hannah@spellboundpublicrelations.com

Madison Hall
madison@spellboundpublicrelations